

CRAWFORD establishes CAT Team in Istanbul

Flash floods killed 31 people in and around Istanbul on Wednesday, 09.09.2009.

Authorities say the downpour marked the heaviest rainfall in the area in 80 years. Eight people are still missing. However, the possibility of more flooding remains a risk for the city, as heavy precipitation is expected both on Friday night and early on Saturday

Crawford & Company, together with their Istanbul-based associate partner ALESTA, has established a CAT team to assist and serve our clients on any type of losses by providing experienced international loss adjusters and locally accredited experts.

Crawford's regional manager Walter Bartholomes will coordinate all activities and can be contacted at:
